"We have transformed the new space into a conference room that we now use for our weekly meetings. Our diagnosticians can collaborate more on student solutions now that we have the space!"

Deb Jones, Director of Special Education, Ingleside ISD

CHALLENGES

Like many districts, Ingleside ISD was running out of storage space. They had filled an entire room with boxes stacked one on top of the other which made it difficult getting the information they needed in a timely manner. Because Ingleside ISD is a small rural district, their campuses are spread out across the area, diagnosticians would have to drive all over the district just to view a record. This was a big waste of time. The district felt like they were spending too much time trying to find, retrieve and share files, time that would have been better spent helping the students.

SOLUTIONS

When YellowFolder picked up the storage boxes, the district was able to reclaim the space which had been solely dedicated to storing all their Special Education records. When YellowFolder scanned, indexed and organized the files consistently, the district realized that finding a particular file or document was as simple and quick as a Google search.

Now that all documents are available in the cloud, they can be accessed anytime, with any device with Internet access, and by anyone with access privileges. Finding and sharing a student's record has been simplified, providing more time that can be dedicated to students and other important tasks.

RESULTS

Once their Special Education records were picked up, they were able to turn their office space into a new Special Education conference room. They're now using that room for their weekly status meetings and are excited to finally have space for discussing how to help their students instead of just storing boxes. The district's outside service providers also use the newly reclaimed space when meeting and discussing important information for the schools. The "new" space is much more useful and everyone feels much less crowded.

Since implementing YellowFolder's cloud storage and scanning system, Ingleside ISD has realized how easy the system is to use and how much time they now save filing and retrieving their records. Not only do multiple people have access to the documents, but there are multiple ways to access the information as well, so working in a partnership on behalf of their students is much more efficient

The diagnosticians appreciate having an easier way to collaborate on solutions for their kids instead of searching for records. They use an iPad in ARD meetings now and are able to flip right to the records they need and share with the click of a button. According to Deb, "The Speech Pathologist loves it because she no longer has to cart around all those heavy records."

"When I called with a question I got a friendly and helpful human being, not a recording. Robert walked me through step by step. YellowFolder is easier to use than we anticipated."
